Good, Better, Best
Athletic Field Drainage Solutions

It has been said that it only takes a heavy fog to close or rain out the multi-purpose fields in Winter Park. Whether real or perceived, could the playing surfaces drain better? Are we doing all we can to keep the fields in great shape? Here is a real quick look at what we do and don’t do with regard to athletic field drainage.

1/28/2015
Winter Park like most municipal sports fields has native soil playing fields. Several of our fields have a very high organic content. This can be desirable because it will leech less, use less water and require less fertilizer. Those same characteristics mean that the soil doesn’t move water through the root zone as quick as a sandy soil.

Then why in the world build on soil like that? First, the way fields are used today has changed and high organic soils do not perform as well as with the amount and type of traffic that these fields see. They were fine years ago with 100’s of hours of use per year and just football and soccer but now with 1000’s of hours, modified layouts and a variety of sports they do not drain or support turf as well. The other is money. Native soil field with surface drainage only, will cost 8 times less than fields that have soil mix and subsurface drainage.

So what do we do?
So what do we do?

Good.

We have already stated the fields have more organics than sand and as a result do not drain as well as some of our other fields with a higher sand content. Organics compact very easily when moist so, playing on or using a wet field just compounds the problem by compacting the soil. Simplest solution is to add sand to the soil profile. This is accomplished by topdressing or spreading a thin layer of sand across the playing surface. This along with aerification will over time change the soil profile. Topdressing is typically used to smooth minor undulations in the playing surface and reduce the thatch layer.

In my “good” proposal I would recommend topdressing and aerifying all multi-purpose fields 2 times during the warmer months with \( \frac{1}{4} \)” of sand. To get that \( \frac{1}{4} \)” of sand over 18 acres would require 36 trucks of sand. The cost of sand varies wildly usually due to fluctuations in freight. A truck can be anywhere between $350 and $475 so, $12,600 - $17,100 just for the sand. Equipment purchase, rental or hiring a contractor to do this will add to the cost. This is not an immediate fix but you will see steady improvement year to year.
Better

Under drain, tile drain, French drains... whatever you want to call it are perforated drainage pipes, covered with fabric, surrounded by gravel and then capped with sand.

These have been very successful and we currently have 4 systems in place. We have always installed these systems on an as needed basis and have yet to do one that runs sideline to sideline so to speak.

Underdrains need to be installed on either a level field or one with a consistent crown to ensure water actually makes it to the drain. Installation of underdrains does not eliminate the need for topdressing with sand but would instead work together to remove water faster than topdressing alone.

So with that in mind a perforated drainage system like this would be $8,000 -$10,000 / acre so $144,000 - $180,000 to do all our fields.

I would not recommend doing this on a system wide basis but rather localized areas that are draining poor. This is where you get the maximum return on your investment.
Best

Kids lucky enough to play field sports after high school, more than likely will play on non-native soils. These soils are blended to provide the best growing / draining media possible.

These fields use non-native soils combined with underdrains and cultural practices like topdressing to have some gorgeous fields for these kids.

I won’t spend any more time on this because it comes with a hefty price tag and except for a premier game field no municipality will ever do this.

If you replace the top 12” of native soil with a non-native soil you would have to remove 240 trucks of soil and add 240 back. The new material alone would be $192,000. If you did all 18 acres you are looking at 1.7 million in soil alone.
I believe at our last meeting that Oviedo was mentioned so I had a conversation with them and the Parks Admin staff took a visit years ago to Apopka's Northwest Sports Complex so I thought I'd check in with them and see how things were going.

Summary

Athletic fields are living, breathing things that are ever changing. What worked 2 years ago may not work at all this year. We do things different now than we did years ago:

- Fertilizer applications are scheduled differently.
- We do not use the same ryegrass varieties.
- Insecticide application has been changed dramatically.
- Herbicides are totally different.
- Aerification frequency has been increased.

All of these things have resulted in either cost savings or a better product. These are not all changes made by us per se some are a result of new technologies that enable us to do a better job.

Now, One weekend and a little bad weather can ruin the fields for everyone for weeks to come. If you have watched any of the NFL playoffs you can see where even the best of the best as far as fields go, I mean these facilities have it all, they look like they just had a motor cross event after the game. No matter how much money one spends there will be times when fields will be closed so a day or two later another customer can enjoy that space.

Given the money and the equipment the multi-purpose fields should be topdressed. This in my opinion gives the users and the City the biggest return for our investment. This is not a one application and the fields are phenomenal. You are changing the soil profile by adding sand to a soil high in organics. This is a process where if we were able to do 2 applications during the growing season there would be a marked improvement the next season. Unlike the other two options topdressing is something that can be done while in season and there is no real downtime or closures. This is something we would be committing to for years to come. This is something you have to ask yourself, are you are happy with the fields now? If you are fine, if not, how much are you going to spend to improve the situation?

RE: Proposed Park concerts- Orlando Big Band- “Swingtime in the Springtime” and “Swingtime In The Park”

Dear Mr. Miller,

Thank you for speaking with me in regards to a concert in the park. Per our discussion, please find the following proposal:

Band Details
The Orlando Big is a full 18 piece authentic 40’s style orchestra. We play tribute to the greats by playing original arrangements as they were presented by Glenn Miller, Tommy Dorsey, Artie Shaw and Benny Goodman just to name a few!! We also feature 3 solo vocalists, an Andrews sisters tribute group, and a 4 piece tribute vocal group. What separates our group from other bands is our philanthropic activity. The Orlando Big Band is a 501(C)3 public charity as recognized by the IRS. We donate a large portion of our earnings to charity. Our motto is "Where music and philanthropy meet."

Event Details
The event this year was well received and drew a larger than expected crowd. It is the kind of family event that fits well for Winter Park. Although the band loves the event and will treat it as a charity fundraiser, we would request support from the city for two future events in 2015. We would also request the city include us their calendar as a semiannual sponsored event. The concert should continue to grow and become a premier event that cannot be duplicated by other cities due to the nature of our organization and the quality of our performance. It will be a Big Band concert featuring the Orlando Big Band and vocalists. We will present classic arrangements from the 30s and 40s as they were originally presented. If allowed, we encourage the audience to dance! It should be noted that this year over 30 couples danced to the delight of the audience. As per your guidelines it would be an open air event with no admission. We understand guidelines and would adhere to your requests.

Proposed Dates
