Winter Park Library Invites Community Book Clubs to Discover Free Book Club Kits

Celebrating National Book Month This October with Ready-Made Collections, Discussion Guides, and More

Winter Park, FL — This October, Winter Park Library (WPL) is encouraging book clubs throughout the community to discover its free Book Club Kits program, a curated collection of 56 titles designed to fuel meaningful discussions and strengthen reading communities.

"Book clubs connect readers through the magic of stories. They are a vital part of many readers' lives," said Jody Lazar, Director of Community Engagement at Winter Park Library. "Our kits remove the planning burden so groups can focus on the book, the conversation and each other."

Each kit includes multiple copies of a single title, discussion guides, and other materials to enhance the book club experience. The collection spans both adult and youth selections, offering variety for groups of all ages and interests. Made possible through the generous support of Dr. Michael Perelman, kits circulate at no cost, making it easy for any group to access quality reading experiences.

The program addresses a real need: finding the right books, gathering enough copies, and facilitating meaningful conversation. WPL's kits deliver all three.

"Whether your group reads mysteries, romance, or historical fiction, there's a kit for your club," Lazar noted. "To keep the collection fresh, we add new titles each year."

Interested in Book Club Kits? Browse the full collection online at winterparklibrary.org/bookclubkits, or visit the Library to explore in person. Kits are available for checkout with a Winter Park Library card.
