WINTER PARK RECEIVES 2016 ULI TRENDSETTER AWARD

WINTER PARK, Fla., an internationally recognized ICMA Excellence Award winner with accredited fire-rescue, police and parks & recreation agencies (February 29, 2016) – The City of Winter Park recently received the 2016 Urban Land Institute (ULI) Trendsetter Award in recognition for its design and construction of the Cady Way Cycle Track. The cycle track is the result of a public/private partnership between the City of Winter Park, its Pedestrian & Bicycle and Keep Winter Park Beautiful & Sustainable advisory boards, and the Winter Park Health Foundation. The cycle track encourages bicycling and safety by combining two bike lanes on one side of the street, separating them from traffic with a 2-foot buffer area and flexible vertical markers.

The annual Trendsetter Award recognizes a project or initiative that exemplifies forward-thinking ideas and practices that represent what is perhaps the industry's next big trend. To be considered for the award, the project must demonstrate innovation in the land use development industry.

Established in 1936, the ULI has more than 37,000 members worldwide. The Institute has long been recognized as one of the world's most respected and widely-quoted sources of objective information on urban planning, growth, and development. The ULI is an independent global nonprofit organization. Its mission is to provide leadership in the responsible use of land and in creating and sustaining thriving communities worldwide.
