

wasn't a printed publication, but a live event that featured presentations from novelists Irving Bacheller and Rex Beach, poets Cale Young Rice, Jessie Rittenhouse, humorist Opie Read, and journalist Albert Shaw. Animated Magazine was the brainchild of Professor Edwin Osgood and President Hamilton Holt, who designated themselves the "editor and the "publisher," respectively.

Over the years, speakers included journalist Edward R. Murrow, actors John Pickford, Greer Garson and James Cagney; FBI director J. Edgar Hoover; civil rights leader Mary McLeod Bethune; U.S. Army Generals Douglas Bradley and Jonathan Wainwright; and authors Carl Sandburg, Willa Cather, and Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings.

In 1931, Holt and legendary educator John Dewey convened "The Colloquy for the Liberal Arts College," a conference that proposed a groundbreaking approach to liberal education — still based on the arts and sciences but also calling for active citizenship and civic service.

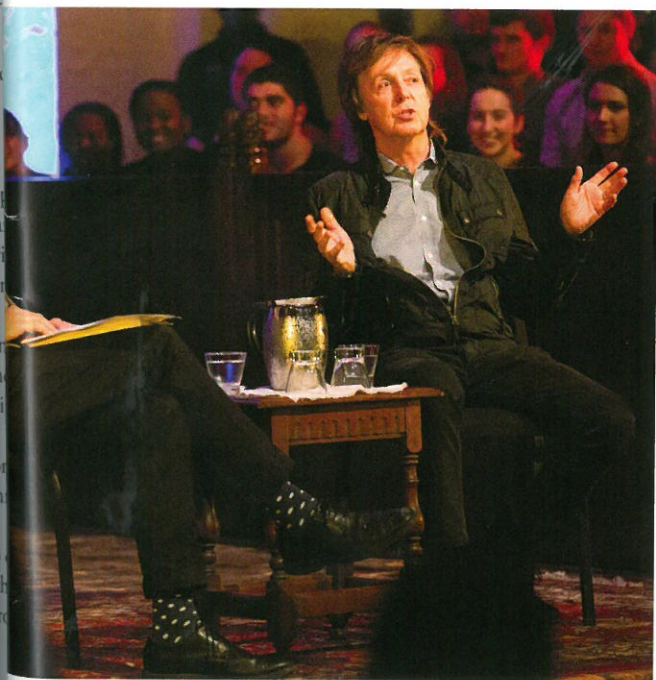

Rollins College honored the 75th anniversary of this seminal event with the Colloquy and Liberal Education and Social Responsibility in a Global Community. Maya Angelou, Francis Fukuyama, Sally Ride, Salman Rushdie, and O. J. Wilson and others convened to explore the social, political and economic themes shaping education in the 21st century.

The Institute was formed as a result of the successful colloquy, renewing Holt's founder's vision of bringing thought leaders to Winter Park — and facilitating energetic and exciting discourse on campus and beyond its borders.

Over the years, speakers with a high public profile, such as Garrison Keillor in the Warden Arena at the Harold & Ted Alford Sports Center, and those who have earned acclaim in more specific areas of endeavor fill intimate venues on campus.

The 2017-18 season, which is expected to include at least five speakers, has been announced at presstime. Rollins students, faculty and staff are invited free, while local residents may purchase tickets, with prices varying according to the speaker. Corporate support is welcome.

For Distinguished Fellow Billy Collins, a two-time U.S. poet laureate, and a familiar friend to Rollins in 2015. Yes, that's Paul McCartney, and Collins for a conversation about creativity as several hundred listeners at Knowles Memorial Chapel hung on every word.

SO, WHAT'S HAPPENING? CITY OFFERS A SINGLE-SOURCE SOLUTION.

In a city bursting at the seams with arts and culture, who can keep up with it all? Making matters more difficult, there hasn't been a single source of information about who's doing what.

Enter the Arts & Culture Subcommittee, which was formed as part of the City of Winter Park's Public Art Advisory Board in an effort to enhance and improve awareness and visibility of the city's numerous non-profit arts and cultural organizations.

The initial result of the subcommittee's work is a hyper-local website: cityofwinterpark.org/arts-culture, where you'll find:

- A comprehensive directory of all nonprofit arts and cultural organizations located within Winter Park's city limits, including contact information and links to individual websites.
- An extensive and easy-to-navigate month-by-month events calendar featuring all scheduled arts and cultural experiences being offered by those organizations.
- Information about upcoming communitywide arts and cultural events, such as the Winter Park Sidewalk Art Festival, among others.

Organizations participating in Winter Park's first-ever combined arts and cultural calendar include: The Albin Polasek Museum and Sculpture Garden (and the adjacent Capen Showalter House); the Annie Russell Theater at Rollins College; Art in Chambers at City Hall; Art on the Green in Central Park; the Autumn Art Festival in Central Park; the Bach Festival Society of Winter; Blue Bamboo Centre for the Arts; the Casa Feliz Historic Home; the Cornell Fine Arts Museum at Rollins College; the Crealdé School of Art; the Fred Stone Theater at Rollins College; the Galloway Room at the Winter Park Chamber of Commerce Welcome Center; GladdeningLight; the Hannibal Square Heritage Center; Mead Botanical Garden; the Charles Hosmer Morse Museum of American Art; the Winter Park History Museum; the Winter Park Institute at Rollins College; the Winter Park Playhouse; and the Winter Park Sidewalk Art Festival.

There are also links to the Winter Park Public Library's Winter Park Sidewalk Art Festival Collection — all the Best of Show winners from years past — and Paint Out, a plein air painting event sponsored by the Polasek.
